Research Slam 2018!

Have you ever wondered how someone's diet is linked to their mental health? Are you interested in research and how it can be shared in a way that is effective, interesting, and fun?

Come to McCreary's 6-day Research Slam to make new connections and build skills in data analysis, report writing, and learning how to create engaging ways to share research so that it can make a difference in your community!

No research experience needed.
